Celebrates His 96th Birthday

James Lumbard, who lives near Freeville, celebrated his 96th birthday Saturday at his home, where he has lived 54 years. His entire family, consisting of a number of sons and daughters, spent the day with him, the only absent member being his son, Newton Lumbard. There were a number of grandchildren in the party and seven great-grandchildren. A feature of the party was a huge birthday cake shaped like a lamb. It was coated with white icing, strewn thickly with cocoanut to represent wool.

Mr. Lumbard is in good health despite his advanced age, and took an active interest in his birthday party.
