

Junior College Talent Presented At Annual Philomath Guest Day

Talent from the dramatic section of the Junior College provided the entertainment yesterday for the Philomath Guest Day program much to the delight of the audience, all of whom were familiar with the high type of entertainment the director, Miss Catherine Field, and her students are capable of giving when invited to appear before the public.

The Philomath members and their guests, who were entertained at the home of Miss Blanche Mallory in Cherry street, were equally enthusiastic over the charming musical numbers given by Mrs. Fred Lombard, vocalist, and her daughter, Mrs. Erna Brixen, who played the accompaniments and also gave two piano selections, Mrs. Lombard sang "Autumn," by Mrs. H. A. Beach, and "I Hear a Lark at Dawn," by Christian Krejts.

Philomath Guest Days have become important integrals in local club life. There were present yesterday friends of the members who have been invited to every special meeting since the club changed its "husbands' night" into an open afternoon meeting.

That the annual guest day had replaced the old "husbands' night" entertainment was recalled through the roll call responses, memory being the theme of the replies.

In revealing the change in the custom, one member also told of her first appearance on the club program. She stated that she was "scared to death," but that the years and kindness of her club sisters had given her self assurance and that she was now able to "rise and make a few remarks" on every occasion.

Introduced by Mrs. C. W. Nabb, Philomath president, Miss Field presented a company of Junior College girls in "The Knave of Hearts," a travesty on red tape in governments, and the frailty of human nature.

The cast was assisted by four little pages, Peggy Harbold, Sue Miller, Tommie Ware and Pen Whitehead.

The players were Miss Elizabeth Miller, king; Miss Marjorie Adams, Lady Viola; Miss Viola Weinland, chancellor; Miss Heien Martin, maid; Miss Novelle Rathke, lady in waiting; Miss Jewell Johnson and Miss Katherine Hatch, royal cooks; and Miss Alice Frisch, herald.

Mrs. Vernor R. Ronk, president of the Sonoma County Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. M. H. Reeves, president of the W. C. T. U., and Miss Ruth Hall, city librarian, were among the special guests present.

The afternoon closed with a social hour and refreshments. The arrangements for the delightful affair were in the hands of Mrs. B. H. Clement, Mrs. C. M. Bruner, Mrs. H. S. Gutormute, Mrs. Arthur Lawson, Mrs. H. C. Bruner, Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Mrs. Blanche Mallory, Mrs. T. F. McMullin and Mrs. Frank Welti.
