

Looking Backward

THROUGH OUR FILES

50 YEARS AGO

Donald, son of James F. Hanson, fell and fractured one of the bones of his forearm.

J. K. May arrived home from a trip to Chicago and other eastern points.

Tom McMahan and bride arrived from Wood River. They were to reside at the McMahan farm in Elkhorn township.

Comparatively few people were aware of the high order of artistic talent that existed in Fremont, and many who looked at and admired the ceramic work displayed in the show window of Mrs. Mooney's millinery store, were surprised to learn that the beautiful pieces of decorated porcelain there were the work of Miss Nina Lumbard, daughter of D. A. Lumbard of the First National bank. Four of the pieces were to be sent to the Worlds fair in Chicago, for exhibition.

Fremont Tribune

Fremont, NE

Thursday, April 15, 1943

Page 4, Column 3